HOLLOWAY'S PILLS. PHIS Medicine is universally admitted to be the most efficacious remedy known to the world. No preparation is so | 21 suitable to the climates of India and China as this fine and invigorating medicine. is particularly adapted to the constitution of European ladies, as it is never failing in its effects in all diseases peculiar to females, while those who are attenuated by the debilitating effects of the above climates will find in this wonderful remedy a kind of talisman whereby they may insure a restoration to robust health.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT. The science of Medicine has never before produced any remedy that can be compared to this wonderful Uintment, as it cures after all other means have failed, wounds, sores, ulcers, and also the most inveterate skin diseases peculiar to the climates of India and China. It is the true friend of the Soldier and Civilian, as certain old sores can be removed by it that cannot be conquered by any other treat-

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS. From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868. We acknowledge with thanks the receip of the numbers for the ourrent year Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its interest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better

(From the "Straits Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as represented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the subject by the recript of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes and Queries on thina and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namesake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, manners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese. It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans . China, that such a publication as this he established and conducted with apparently successful vigour. The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success. we commend it to the attention and support but the First Class now are) to the same

(From the "London Examiner," May This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan"] is intended as guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercautile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. It has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Denuys; and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds.

considerably enhance its value. * * * We have thus given in outline some of the more prominent portions of the chapter devoted to Canton, as a specimen of the whole volume. Other chapters treating of Macao, Formosa, Ningpo, Shanghae, and the remainder of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and contain so much that is new to European readers respecting its history, public buildings, and general characteristics, that we would fain transfer them to our columns. A complete and intelligible plan of the Imperial City and neighbourhood, gives us an accurate notion of the relative position of its divisions, streets, and places.

of the Treaty Ports of Japan will be found a succinct history of that Empire, together with remarks on its government, geography, and limits, which will be found particularly interesting as throwing a considerable light on a part of the world so long entirely, and still comparatively, unknown to Europeans. THE CHINA MAIL

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, OCT. 17, 1868. OUR CONSULAR INTERPRETERS THE Friend of China, (whose editorial conduct by the way has passed into new hands,) contains in a recent issue some noteworthy remarks on the appointment of Sir R. Alcock's successor when the happy time arrives that he leaves for ever the country in which he has so damaged British interests. Condemning the possibility of Mr Wade's appointment it points out the necessity of appointing as future Minister a man of station and ability who will bring dignity and experience to his office and obviate the necessity of his countrymen's constantly feeling indignant at what our contemporary terms "Consular Impotence"-or in other words the result of the repressive instructions under those officers are compelled to act. With the general tenor of these remarks we most thoroughly agree, though our present object is not to reiterate opinions similar to those we have so long professed. We may, however, in passing, express our gratification at the unanimity of the press in China upon this particular matter of Sir R. Alcock's diplomatic action. Even the North China Herald, which as the semiofficial organ can scarcely be expected to express its opinions in a manner quite so independent as its contemporaries, finds many things "inexplicable" and "astonishing" in recent acts of the British Minister. But with this excusable exception. British journals in China are unanimous in condemning the "leave well alone" or "pray-don't-make-a-row" poliey, which found its original inspiration

It is to a suggestion made by the Friend relative to interpretorial duties that our present remarks have chiefly reference. It is of opinion that much benefit "would accrue from the disjunction of the Executive and Interpretorial departments of the Consular service, as those who devote their whole time to the attainment of the one great object of learning the Chinese Language, to the exclusion of every other information, ate incompetent for its executive functions, often showing premonitary symptoms which seem to verify the popular saying that all who study Chinese go mad. We must confess that at first sight we are inclined to coincide with our contemporary's proposition. Occasionally we meet with men who are not only profound Chinese scholars but are eminently gifted with that special talent, or combination of talents, which go to make up the skilful

A COAL QUESTION. Hongkong, 17th October, 1868. To the Editor of the "CHINA MAIL." SIR .- While at the Police Court yester day as complainant in a case of Coal stealing, I was greatly taken aback by the voluntary bold assertion of the Usher of that Court, saving that he gave away his coals in his cinders.

-Yours sincerely,

What had the Usher of the Court to do with the case, unless addressed by the Bench ? (in this case he was not). I. If he allows his servants to take away coals in his cinders, or as he says he gives them away, what has his private business to do with public affairs such as a Court of Jus-

By the reasoning of the Usher of the Court, it appears that because he gives his coals away in his cinders, that he has the liberty to confront a person while in the execution of his duty when charging a person for stealing Coals, although the may be mixed with ciuders.

And if the Usher of the Court can allow or afford, his servants to take away such Coals from his house as was produced in Court in the above case, I make bold to say I believe there is not another person in the Colony who would allow the same.

GUNNERY EXPERIMENTS IN PRUSSIA. (Pall Mall Gazette, Aug. 7.) During the last two months a series of

has been going on at Tegel, near Berlin. These trials have a more than common interest. For the first time a heavy Armstrong and a heavy Krupp gun have been fairly pitted one against the other and upon the result of these experiments appears to depend in a great degree the future supremacy of either system throughout Europe. The trials, indeed, open up the whole question of the position of the celebrated Krupp ordnance, of which Prussia for the first time is now seriously taking the measure. It would be strange if under these circumstances the experiments did not attract a good deal of attention among our own and foreign axillerists: but the difficulty of obtaining trustworthy information will perhaps invest the following account of the experiments, as far as they have at present proceeded, with exceptional interest. England is worthily represented in the contest. Her champion is a 9-inch "Woolwich" gun, manufactured by Sir William Armstrong and Co., and firing Palliser projectiles, with battering charges of English powder.

In every respect the 9-inch Woolwich gun now doing duty at Tegel is an exactprobably excellent representation of 9-inch rifled gun, with its Palliser 250 lb. (which would be equal to about 37 lb.

The first trials took place early in June. Three targets were provided for attack. The first consisted of 6-inch plates upon a backing closely resembling the "Chalmers" in principle. This result is scarcely redeemed by what has followed. The original object, it should be observed, was to test the English and Prussian systems competitively. In this competition the Prussian system was signally worsted. Since these trials the Prussian artillerists have deemed it necessary to make a revolution in their system. An account of the history and adventures of this bandit, interspersed with valuable information on Bulgarian life and character, has been contributed to the Remes Contemporaine by Mdme. Caroline Sychodolska, the wife of an officer in the " Cossacks of the Sultan. Many years ago, when Koushtohen was a young man, his personal beauty and skill in all athlatic exercises made him a universal favourite, and the village girls used all their arts to attract him. His choice fell on a beautiful maiden Mitza, whose parents, poor but respectable peasants of an adjoining village, fully approved his suit. All went well for a time, and preparations were made for the betrothal of the young couple; but unfortunately Koushtchon was called away to a distant district on business, and Mitza went with her father to work in a field belonging to a wealthy Turkish pasha in the the English Government muzzle-loading vicinity. In every village there was a girl who acted as his accomplice, informing him whenever a rich Turk happened to be passing through, and warning him against the approach of the troops. He soon obtained such a reputation among the villagers that they never thought of resisting his demands for food. clothing, or money for his band, especially as it was known that he appropriated a considerable proportion of his booty to the maintenance of churches, the relief of the poor, and other charitable objects. An attempt was once made by the Government to capture him through another bandit named Hussein, who was then confined in a Turkish prison. Hussein was liberated, and promised a large reward if he would betray his former chief; but he only joined his former companions, and, being captured a second time, was burnt alive by the troops.

The attempts made last year to stir up an insurrection in Bulgaria were to a great extent carried out with Koushtchou's cooperation. The Polish Cossacks pursued him for months all over the Balkan, and capturing its principal chiefs; but they failed to catch Koushtchou himself. On one occasion an old Turkish woman came to them with a Bulgarian priest, saying that jectile, which was already fixed in the she knew the bandit's hiding-place, and was target.
